

Dr. Edit Csanák (DLA) is the Vice Dean at the Rejtő Sándor Faculty of Light Industry and Environmental Protection Engineering of Óbuda University in Budapest and works as full-time Associate Professor at the Product Design Institute of the Faculty. Recently she spent a semester as an International Teacher at Jiangnan University School of Design in Wuhan, China.

Dr. Edit Csanák DLA is a recognized fashion theorist of sustainable fashion and garment industry technology and processes. She has numerous publications listed. As a fashion designer, she creates autonomous capsule collections featuring her work in art exhibitions and fashion shows. She is a recognized denim artisan and jeans expert, editor of website www.denimglobe.com. She designs seasonal collections for brands; her company organizes product development and strategic consulting and offers customized denim products and designer jeans.